CHAIRMAN HAYWARD EXPLAINS.
He States His Position Clearly For the Benefit of the Council.

The Allegations Made By the Trio of Trustees Denied.

MR. CHARLES HAYWARD, Chairman of the School Trustees, has handed in the following communication to the City Council:

To His Worship the Mayor and City Council.

GENTLEMEN,—The charges against me are that I believe in exercising unwarrantable power; in curtailing the power, usefulness and dignity of the Trustee Board, and arrogating to myself the powers of the whole board, and in proof thereof allege:

1st.—That I instructed the secretary to request the Principal of the Boys' school to defer carrying out the resolution of the Board.

Answer—To this I give an emphatic denial, and in proof produce the resolution of the Board, and the secretary's letter in connection therewith. I admit having brought the trustees' complaint to the notice of the Board, and when it was agreed that it should be referred to the Supt. of Education, I felt justified in giving to the secretary, at his request, the details of which he had no notes, in order that the clearly expressed views of the Board "that the Superintendent should take the matter under his consideration," might have effect. But that letter is not mine, nor does it purport to be from me, nor did I instruct the Secretary to write it. That the details as given by me are fair and truthful, I produce an acknowledgment to that effect from the original complainant.

2nd.—That I deny the allegation, and, in proof of my denial, produce the letter referred to, which entirely and utterly refutes the charge.

Answer—To this also I give an emphatic denial, and in proof produce the resolution of the Board, and the secretary's letter in connection therewith. I admit having brought the trustees' complaint to the notice of the Board, and when it was agreed that it should be referred to the Supt. of Education, I felt justified in giving to the secretary, at his request, the details of which he had no notes, in order that the clearly expressed views of the Board "that the Superintendent should take the matter under his consideration," might have effect. But that letter is not mine, nor does it purport to be from me, nor did I instruct the Secretary to write it. That the details as given by me are fair and truthful, I produce an acknowledgment to that effect from the original complainant.

3rd.—That I deny the allegation, and, in proof of my denial, produce the letter referred to, which entirely and utterly refutes the charge.

Answer—To this also I give an emphatic denial, and in proof produce the resolution of the Board, and the secretary's letter in connection therewith. I admit having brought the trustees' complaint to the notice of the Board, and when it was agreed that it should be referred to the Supt. of Education, I felt justified in giving to the secretary, at his request, the details of which he had no notes, in order that the clearly expressed views of the Board "that the Superintendent should take the matter under his consideration," might have effect. But that letter is not mine, nor does it purport to be from me, nor did I instruct the Secretary to write it. That the details as given by me are fair and truthful, I produce an acknowledgment to that effect from the original complainant.

4th.—That I deny the allegation, and, in proof of my denial, produce the letter referred to, which entirely and utterly refutes the charge.

Answer—To this also I give an emphatic denial, and in proof produce the resolution of the Board, and the secretary's letter in connection therewith. I admit having brought the trustees' complaint to the notice of the Board, and when it was agreed that it should be referred to the Supt. of Education, I felt justified in giving to the secretary, at his request, the details of which he had no notes, in order that the clearly expressed views of the Board "that the Superintendent should take the matter under his consideration," might have effect. But that letter is not mine, nor does it purport to be from me, nor did I instruct the Secretary to write it. That the details as given by me are fair and truthful, I produce an acknowledgment to that effect from the original complainant.

5th.—That I deny the allegation, and, in proof of my denial, produce the letter referred to, which entirely and utterly refutes the charge.

Answer—To this also I give an emphatic denial, and in proof produce the resolution of the Board, and the secretary's letter in connection therewith. 9th.—That I deny the allegation, and, in proof of my denial, produce the letter referred to, which entirely and utterly refutes the charge.

Answer—To this also I give an emphatic denial, and in proof produce the resolution of the Board, and the secretary's letter in connection therewith. of the school, against the wishes of the Supt. of Education, was contrary to the School Act, and a nullification of their own resolutions, as expressed at the Board meetings of Sept. 1st and Oct. 21st.

Therefore, gentlemen, I feel bound to say that if these reasons do not meet your approval—if you deliberately decide that the same regard to honor and obligation is not to exist between two public bodies as is demanded and enforced between private citizens; if you consider that the interests of education and the dignity of the Board are best conserved by violating the provisions of the School Act, and by acts of inconsistency in the Board itself—then I regret to say that our views so happily differ that I cannot longer remain as your nominee to represent opinions with which I have nothing in common.

CANADIAN NEWS.
Collision off Prince Edward Island.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 13.—The steamer Fastnet, of Halifax, was in collision at Charlottetown, P. E. I., yesterday, during a fog with the steamer Heather Bell, and the latter sank ten minutes afterwards.

The Heather Bell's stern was cut clean off from deck to keel. Her passengers were transferred to the Fastnet, and no lives were lost. The damage to the Fastnet is trifling.

Another Quebec Scandal.
TORONTO, Nov. 14.—The Empire's Montreal correspondent declares that another great scandal will be unearthed in a few days in connection with the railway bridge at Rigaud, on the line of the Montreal and Ottawa railway, as he learns that no less than $30,000 was begged by the Mercier clique on this single structure.

Monument to Merit.
QUEBEC, Nov. 13.—The monument erected by the citizens to Major Short and Sergeant Wallik, R.C.A., who lost their lives through the premature explosion of two barrels of gunpowder while they were blowing up buildings during the great fire of May, 1889, was unveiled yesterday by Mayor Fremont. An oration was delivered by Premier Mercier. Cardinal Taschereau was present.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.
BERLIN, Nov. 13.—The onslaught of the police on the men who live from the earnings of immoral women has brought out some startling and unexpected facts. In one instance it was discovered that a woman of the town had for years been supporting a lieutenant in one of the crack regiments who was supposed to be in receipt of a family allowance; but who actually had no other dependence than what he received from this woman's generosity. As the female in question has been hurried out of town, it is doubtful whether a case can be made to bring the degenerate officer before a court martial or even to ask for his resignation. There is good ground for believing that the case is not an exceptional one. Many of the young officers are sons of impoverished princely or noble houses and entirely without the means to keep up a social appearance, such as their station requires. That a man of them drive their income from questionable sources, there is no doubt and there is also no question that some of them are favorites with a certain class of women. The Kaiser's blow at immorality has struck deeper socially than he, or even the police, had any idea that it would.

Serious Losses By Flood in England.
LONDON, Nov. 3.—The damage by the floods in Somersetshire from the floods in October was estimated at £200,000. The renewal of the freshets, with the recurrence of the breaking of the river banks, complete the ruin begun a month ago in many places. Following upon a deficient harvest in the district, the misfortune is almost crushing. Several fruit attempts have been made, since the former storms, to obtain relief through the starting of a Mansion House fund in London, but they have been unsuccessful. There are bitter local complaints that such funds would have been started long ago, if the petitioners had been sufferers in Timbuctoo instead of a near-by district.

The Czar of Russia.
THE CZAR of Russia probably has his own troubles as well as we commoner mortals. Where we have the advantage in such troubles as dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, bad blood and the like is in being able to procure easily a perfect remedy in Burecek Blood Purifier, nature's grand restorative tonic and purifier.

TWO LIVES WERE LOST.

The Nova Scotian Bark Sarah Comes to Grief Below Carmanah.

Her Captain and Crew Reach the Lighthouse Safely—Meagre Details.

Just about three o'clock, yesterday afternoon, the captain and crew of the British bark Sarah, 1,142 tons register, reached Carmanah Point in an open boat, having left their ship, a total wreck, some twenty miles further down the southern coast of Vancouver Island.

Up to the hour the COLONIST went to press it was only possible to secure the roughest outline of the story of the disaster, which was unfortunately attended with loss of life. The keeper of the light, Mr. Dakin, has only within the last few weeks undertaken to master the mysteries of telegraphy, and thus, while able to transmit the bald news of the wreck, could not be depended upon for details. By piecing together the message sent by him during the afternoon and evening, it is gathered that the bark struck during a heavy gale, rendered all the more distressing by the prevalence of fog, on the 8th instant, and soon was a total and complete wreck. With the greatest difficulty the life-boats were lowered, and a landing was made, two of the crew being lost in surf, which beat high on the uninhabited coast. Since the date of the wreck, the shipwrecked ones have been making the best of their difficult and dangerous freight way to some spot where civilization has touched.

Capt. Greenhalgh's wife and baby accompanied him on the ill-starred trip, and are among the saved. The boat in which the survivors reached Carmanah was broken in landing there, and its crew escaped being carried back to sea on the receding wave, almost by a miracle.

The Sarah was a staunch, wooden bark, seventeen years of age, rated 1,142 in Lloyd's. built in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, where her owners, H. Hutton & Co., reside. She had been in the Eastern trade for several years, and, when she met her fate, was on her way to Port Belknap, in ballast, from Manila, to load a lumber cargo for Sydney, N.S.W.

The little steamer Mystery was engaged to make the trip to Carmanah and bring back the crew of the Sarah, and left on her mission at about 6 o'clock last evening. Mr. William Christie, local manager of the C.P.R. telegraph lines, accompanied her, his intention being to forward particulars of the disaster on reaching Carmanah.

Messrs. Hutton & Co. were communicated with as soon as the news of the ship's loss was received, and this unfortunate accident serves well to illustrate the usefulness and necessity of the Carmanah wire. Had it not been in operation the distressed mariners would have been forced to remain perhaps many days at the lighthouse, or else risk an uncomfortable and perilous trip to Victoria in the faithful lifeboat.

The wreck of the Sarah was the first reported from the new signal station.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.
The New York Stock Market Featureless—Flour and Wheat Higher—Values of Groceries.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Money closed at 4 per cent. The highest was 5 and the lowest 3. Exchange closed quiet; postal rates, 4.81@4.84, actual rates, 4.80@4.83 for 60 days and 4.83@4.84 for demand. Governments closed steady; currency sixes, 111 bid; four's coupon, 116 bid; extended twos, registered, 99½ bid. Pacific R. R. bonds closed as follows: Union firsts, 107½ bid; Union sinking funds, 105½ bid; Centrals, 106½ bid. Business in the Stock Exchange, this morning, was limited. There were no orders of any consequence in the market. In the early dealings there was a show of weakness, but a subsequent covering by the shorts came to prices steadily harder under the lead of the coal and Northern Pacific preferred shares. At noon, they were generally 1 to 2 higher than those of yesterday. Aside from the stocks named, the principal trading was in Chicago Gas and St. Paul. The movement in the remainder of the list was comparatively narrow. London houses were moderate sellers of St. Paul, Reading, Northern Pacific preferred, and Louisville and Nashville, and at the opening, although dealings continued limited during the afternoon, the market further strengthened and prices were firmer up to the close, the best figures having been cleared in the final dealings. The advance ranged from 1 to 2½ per cent. The coal shares were the next strongest stocks. Commercial cable stock was particularly strong, and advanced 1 per cent. It was stated that the Union Pacific Road's net earnings for September had increased $144,000. The Northern Pacific directors will meet on Thursday, and declare the quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. The sales for the day amounted to 252,582 shares. Closing prices: Pacific Mail 36; Western Union 82½; North Western 115½; Northern Pacific 20½; Northern Pacific preferred 70½; Northern Pacific first mortgage bonds 103½; Canadian Pacific 80½; Union Pacific 40½; Missouri Pacific 60½; Oregon Navigation, 73; Central Pacific, 32; Texas Pacific, 12½; Great Northern Pacific, 111½; Manitoba, 112; Fargo

SCHOOL BOARD TROUBLES

Informally Discussed By the City Council Last Night, No Quorum Attending.

The Mayor Thinks the Trustees Should Not Have Come to the Council.

The special meeting of the City Council called for last night, did not pan out satisfactorily. It was called for 7 o'clock, and at the expiration of the usual half-hour's grace, the only members present of the Aldermanic board were Ald. McKillop, Munn and Goughlan. A few minutes after, Ald. Robertson, Holland and Renouf, and Trustees Hayward and McConnan put in an appearance, and Ald. McKillop, in the absence of the Mayor, took the chair.

Ald. HOLLAND asked if anything had been received from the City Baristers. The City Clerk replied in the negative. Ald. RENOUF didn't see what the City Baristers had to do with it. What had to be decided was, whether Mr. Hayward, as Chairman of the Board of School Trustees, had exceeded his duty, as alleged by the three signers of the petition addressed to the Council.

Ald. GOUGHLAN pointed out that there was a difference of opinion as to the interpretation of the School Act, and to settle this it was desirable that a legal opinion should be obtained.

Ald. MUNN had entered the room and objected to the meeting, on the ground that it had been called for seven o'clock and that at half past seven there was not a quorum present.

Ald. RENOUF said that he was down stairs, as was also Ald. Robertson, dealing with two charity cases.

The CHAIRMAN—My attention having been called to the fact, I must pronounce the meeting illegal.

Ald. MUNN declared that it was no quibble on his part. The meeting had been called for seven o'clock, and it was an injustice to those who were present that there was no quorum at half-past seven. He went away at that hour, and others might have done the same.

Ald. RICHARDS thought they might discuss the Public School matter, but they could not deal with the by-laws as proposed at last meeting.

The CHAIRMAN—Yes, but you can pass no resolution which will be binding, this evening. My attention having been called to the want of a quorum at the proper time nothing you do to night can be binding.

The Mayor here entered the room, and the case was explained to him. He regretted that he was not on time, but explained that he had been detained on important business.

Ald. RENOUF repeated his opinion that there was no legal opinion necessary on the school matter.

The Mayor said that he had consulted with the legal advisers on the subject, and had been told by them that before they gave any opinion on the subject they would like to have a case stated to them in writing.

Ald. HOLLAND—I would like to have the opinion of the city baristers on this point. "Have the School Trustees power to appoint teachers without the sanction of the Board of Public Instruction?"

The Mayor did not think that the point at issue. What he would suggest was that the four trustees appointed by the City Council should prepare a case and submit it. It would not do for the Council to prepare a case.

Mr. HAYWARD suggested that the point could be narrowed down to the question: "Have the School Trustees power to give the instructions they did to Mr. Northerby?"

The Mayor—Perhaps that would be well to state the case as it arose.

Ald. HOLLAND—Let them ask if the trustees have any control over the internal arrangements of the school.

The Mayor suggested that it would be well for the Chairman to suspend action pending a settlement of the question.

Ald. RENOUF—There are parliamentary rules for the government of these matters. We have got to decide whether Mr. Hayward violated the confidence we reposed in him.

The Mayor—If you want to come down to the nut, and the kernel in the nut, I'll tell you what I think. I am of the opinion that the school trustees had no right to come before us at all. It is competent for any ratepayer to object to the action of any board and give his reasons for objecting, but when the dispute arises among themselves, they have no right to come before us to settle it.

Ald. HOLLAND—That was just what I was about to ask. Have we any jurisdiction in the case?

The Mayor—We have the right to remove those trustees we said there if we think they are not doing their duty. I think it very unfortunate that the matter was ever brought before this council.

Ald. MUNN—I told one of the trustees the other day that they were becoming school boys again. They get into trouble, and then come to their big brothers to fight it out for them.

Ald. RENOUF—The sooner the Government hands over to us the taxes they collect and let us run the schools ourselves, the better for the education of the young people.

A SPLENDID SUCCESS.

THE LEBU'S CARGO,

Broached By the Crew, Who Acknowledge Their Guilt and Tell a Curious Tale.

John Day, Returned for Trial, Charged With Buying Liquor at Five Dollars per Case.

John Day, Esquimalt, was brought up on remand at the Police Court, yesterday morning, charged with having received a quantity of liquor, part of the cargo of the bark Lebu, knowing the same to have been stolen.

The Court room was crowded, the greatest interest being taken in the case. The particulars of the robbery have been duly published in the Colonist. Day was arrested, but admitted to bail, and since then two important witnesses—members of the crew—have been secured. Mr. Mason appeared for the prosecution, and Messrs. Walls and Irving for the defence. Mr. Holmeken watched the case on the part of the Customs House authorities.

John Grover was the first witness put in the box for the prosecution. He was a seaman on the Lebu, which arrived at Esquimalt, from London, about seven weeks ago. He helped to discharge the cargo, which included government stores and supplies. Part of the cargo consisted of case liquors. Sixteen of the cases were sold and delivered to Day at $5 a case. They were stolen from the ship. As soon as the money was collected witness received his share—one-fifth. The cases were taken from the aft-hatch. Witness deserted the vessel and went to Port Townsend, where he was arrested and brought back to Victoria in custody. There were five of the crew in the scheme, and all were in custody, with one exception. After the arrival of the ship, Day made arrangements for the purchase of the stuff, and it was supplied to him. He undertook to buy all the stuff brought to him at $5 per case. It was Day who made the proposal.

To his Honor—The first time I landed in Esquimalt I had a conversation with Day, and afterwards made an arrangement with him to get $5 a case for all the liquor we would bring him. I helped to put in sixteen cases in all. The cases were put in at the back of the bar. After the last cases were delivered to Day I deserted. Before leaving Esquimalt I spent one night in Day's house.

His Honor—How many cases were taken to Day's from the ship?

Witness—I could not say. All I know of is sixteen.

Wm. Elmhurst, a sailor on board the Lebu during her last trip, deposed that he was known as "Fred" on board. The Government supplies were landed at Esquimalt, the powder and ammunition was discharged while the vessel was at anchor, but the store supplies were landed when the vessel was at the wharf. While discharging the cargo, 22 cases were taken to Day's and paid for by him at the rate of $5 per case. The cases were stolen by witness and three others of the crew. There were five cases in the first lot, and these were delivered to Day at his house, at midnight. The cases were paid for by day and the money divided. Witness could not give any dates, but said that the first cases brought on shore were while the vessel was in the stream. All the goods were delivered at midnight, and payment was made on delivery or on the following day. The money was always divided among the five members of the crew who were into the plot.

Cross-examined by Mr. Irving, witness said that the usual liquor rations were served out during the voyage by the captain. He never told any person that he had the key of the hatch during the voyage. He received the money from Day—$25 for the first lot, $20 for the second, and $55 for the third. The money was divided among the five, each receiving a fifth.

"What became of the rest of the stuff stolen from the ship?" asked Mr. Irving.

"I don't know," answered the witness. "I didn't steal it. I had no jam, or jelly, or pickles, or champagne on the voyage out. When the five of us who were in partnership in this affair were carrying out our plans, there was only one other man left, and he was asleep in his bunk. I was not aware that the cargo had been broached on the voyage. I deserted the vessel and went to Port Townsend, where I was arrested. I was arrested on a charge of broaching cargo, and was told that I was wanted as a witness and would not be punished. I don't expect I will be punished. Grover and I hid the stuff in the one cell since our arrest. Grover deserted the ship eight days before me, and when I deserted the ship was alone side the dock.

To the Court—I made no agreement with Day, beyond that I was to deliver the goods. The agreement was made with him by Grover and Donahoe, and I delivered the goods and received the money. The goods were all delivered within a fortnight. When I delivered the second lot, the cases delivered before were not there.

Harry Mayder deposed to having shipped from London to Esquimalt in the Lebu. He knew Day, whose saloon he was in the habit of visiting while in port. Witness knew that several cases of liquor had been supplied to Day, having helped to take them out of the hold. Fred (just witness) was the first to suggest the taking of the stuff. Fred said: "It's Government stuff, and we might have a little of it." "I agreed with him," added the witness, "and chipped in. I passed the stuff over the side." "Were any of the officers present?" asked Mr. Mason.

"Well I should smile," answered the witness, "sitting the action to the word. 'Not likely on that occasion. It was a case of stealing. Ginger—or—Fred—got the money and divided it. He was our paymaster. [Laughter.]

Cross-examined by Mr. Irving, witness said that there was nothing said on the passage as to broaching the cargo. The hatch was battered down, and the aft hatch locked. It was opened with a key. Fred had the key. One case was taken out and drunk in the fore-cabin, among the crew, with the exception of one fellow whom they could not trust.

To his Honor—Fred got the key a couple of days after we arrived at Esquimalt. He kept it till he came to Victoria, and then threw it away. All I know of as having been stolen is 22 cases. I heard there were 50 cases taken, but if that be true there were others besides us had a hand in it.

John Donahoe, another of the crew of the Lebu, was examined. He was asked by the others of the crew to assist in a "haul," and agreed. He lowered 22 cases of liquor into the boat, on different occasions. Fred collected $5 a case for the stuff and shared the money with the rest of the crew who were in the scheme. "Our cashier and business manager was Fred," said witness. "I don't know where the stuff was landed, for as soon as I got it, lowered I skipped and got into my bunk."

This of this sort are done in a hurry, you know. Ginger or Fred opened the hatches with a key.

This concluded the evidence for the prosecution, and Mr. Irving asked, should his honor not have made up his mind to dismiss the case—to let it stand over until morning. He pointed out several contradictory statements made by the witness, and asked his honor to read over the evidence and dismiss the case.

Day was asked if he had anything to say, and given the usual caution. His answer was "Not Guilty."

His Honor then returned the case for trial, admitting Day to bail, himself in $2,000 and two sureties in $1,000 each.

ALMOST AN ACCIDENT.

The Breaking Down of the Derrick Causes a Scare—The Solduck Springs.

PORT CRESCENT, Nov. 10.—A number of workmen employed on the breakwater at this place had a narrow escape from death by an accident, yesterday. The great derrick broke down suddenly, just as a car loaded with rock was being lowered on its trucks. The immense mast and the even more ponderous boom were thrown without warning toward the men around the car. Fortunately the timbers missed all of them, one man standing directly between the mast and the boom as they fell. As the derrick is constructed of timber 13 inches square, and the boom is 44 feet long, the accident might have caused frightful fatality. The fall of the mast was occasioned by the breaking of a piece of wrought iron, one of six inches, at the top of the derrick. It is supposed the piece was cracked by the great strain while the derrick was raising masses of rock six and seven tons in weight. When the derrick fell it was hoisting a comparatively small car load, so that the fracture must have been started earlier in the day. The derrick will be repaired and work resumed to-morrow.

Capt. Frederick Muller, of Fairhaven, has located in the Solduck Valley, south-east of here, and organizing a syndicate of California capitalists, to develop the wonderful hot sulphur spring on the Upper Solduck. The water issues in vast quantities, is of high temperature and possesses great medical qualities.

CRIMINAL WORK!

The Press Speaks Boldly!

AS BAD AS BURGLARS AND MURDERERS!

They Should be Looked After!

The "Philadelphia Times," in a very recent article, speaks strongly in regard to criminal plumbing and its results. It says: "In point of fact the sanitary plumbing proclaimed and professed to be practised by the organized master plumbers is seldom enforced. Most of their work is hidden from ordinary notice, and they largely make their profits by dishonest practices. The ignorant or dishonest plumber will sow the seeds of death in every home if he is allowed to do the plumbing, no matter how well he is watched or paid. There is no excuse for ignorance of poisonous gases in a home. The plumber who deliberately puts imperfect work in the hidden parts of a house, and thus exposes a family to disease and death, is as much a criminal as any burglar or murderer. He knows that the diffusion of poisonous gases destroys health and imperils life, and when he has covered his hidden vents in plumbing for sewer gas to carry its deadly fumes into homes, he is a criminal and should be treated and punished as a criminal."

Sad to relate, our experience in Canada in plumbing work is quite on a par with that in the United States. A large proportion of prevailing sickness is due to the unsanitary condition of plumbing work in our ordinary dwelling houses, where the young and old, the healthy and suffering, spend a great portion of their time.

Under existing circumstances, and until the strong arm of the law can furnish relief, we would sound a note of warning to those who are predisposed to disease, and to those who are not rugged in health, and who are nervous, sleepless, irritable, dyspeptic, rheumatic and who cannot boast of perfect blood circulation—to such we would say, you require nature's great invigorator and health restorer, Paine's Celery Compound. There is no other known remedy that will so quickly or so effectually drive away the lingering seeds of disease, which so often produce typhoid fever. Paine's Celery Compound, given to the children when indisposed and feverish, will ward off diphtheria, and will give them great vitality. Every Canadian home should be furnished with a bottle of this true and honest remedy, to which every ailing member of the family should have access. Physicians everywhere recommend and prescribe it. Take hold of it in time, and avoid the dangerous effects of a polluted atmosphere.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

It is not right that there should be any uncertainty as to who is responsible for damage done to persons or property by wires which the Corporation permits to be strung over the streets in all parts of the city. There is no doubt in the world that the Corporation is, equitably, immediately responsible. It is the duty of the city government, when it grants a franchise to any company, to protect the citizens. It should permit no body of men to endanger either their lives or their property. It should see that every precaution necessary to the safety of the public is provided. It cannot shift this duty on to other shoulders, or get rid of the responsibility it involves. The individual citizen can look only to the Corporation for protection and for compensation for injury done, because that protection is insufficient. The Corporation should always be ready to acknowledge its obligation, and if, on enquiry it is found that the blame is attributable to a company possessing a franchise, the Corporation, and not the individual, should look to the company for a remedy.

In the case of Mr. Bryce, whose horse was killed by an electric wire, it is unfair that he should be obliged to go to law with the Tramway or any other electric company, for the compensation to which he is clearly entitled. He was travelling on the public street, which it is the duty of the Corporation to keep safe and in good order. The Corporation, when it gave that company leave to string wires over the street, should have taken the proper measures to ensure the safety of those who should travel on the street, and should have taken care that if any citizen should be injured in person or property by the fault or the neglect of the Tramway company, it should be compelled, as far as it is possible, to make good that injury. But it is the Corporation's business to compel the company to live up to its obligations, and not that of Mr. Bryce, or any other individual citizen. We are surprised, indeed, to find that there should be any doubt as to the responsibility of the Corporation in the matter.

THE ELECTORATE.

Those who complain of civic misgovernment seldom look deep enough for its cause. They lay the blame of the evils they see, or imagine they see, on everyone but themselves. But if a city is misgoverned for any length of time, are not those who elect the city's governors chiefly responsible for the abuses that are not remedied? The Toronto Monetary Times in an article on the government of cities shows where the reform, if effected at all, must begin. It says:—

"Municipal government, in the cities, is abandoned to whomsoever is disposed to seize it. The average elector, who refuses to do his share towards securing good municipal government, forfeits his right to complain when things go wrong, through his neglect of duties as an inhabitant of the city. Municipal reform, to be real, must begin with the people. So long as a large number of people think only of conveying some means of shifting the burden of their taxes to some shoulders not their own, there will be no hope of real municipal reform. The honorable exceptions, which undoubtedly exist, are too feeble to prevail. If we would study political economy to advantage, we must not give undue weight to considerations of personal interest, which are strong enough to deflect the average mind from the straight path. At present the great body of the property holders cannot be got to vote on any law authorizing the expenditure of millions of money, and after it is spent some of them are loud in their complaints."

The Monetary Times strikes at the root of the matter. If the citizens want the municipality to be well governed they must take a lively interest in its affairs, and do their best towards having them judiciously managed. Men who for years neglect their duties as electors and refrain from making any use of their powers and privileges have no right to complain when things go wrong. An intelligent and watchful body of electors is just as essential to good city government as prudent and capable city councillors. Here again we find the saying that "people always have just as good a government as they deserve," holds good.

SECTION THIRTY-THREE.

We did hope that our evening contemporary had made up its mind to reform. We thought that we saw indications in it of a change for the better. But we have been disappointed. It has gone back to its old ways. It seems that it cannot comment upon what appears in the COLONIST without using the stereotyped phrases which have become meaningless. They are intended to be discourteous and offensive, but they are only foolish. It speaks of our "malignity" our "untruthfulness," our "misrepresentation," and our "slang" in dealing with the school dispute. It something more than insinuates that we borrow our ideas and even our language from the Council of Public Instruction. All this is very silly; it is untrue; and it, besides, has nothing whatever to do with the question in dispute.

Our contemporary's contention is that because the law requires the Trustees of the city schools "to provide sufficient school accommodation and tuition free of all charge to all the children of the district" that Board is justified in disregarding the restriction which the following words of the same clause place on its power of appointing teachers "to appoint the number of teachers for whose salaries provision has been made in the estimates."

The first part of the clause gives Trustees power to provide tuition for the children, and the passage we have just quoted directs how that power is to be exercised. Nothing is plainer than this. If the power of appointing teachers is unlimited, as the minority of the Board of Trustees contend, then the words restricting the number to those for whose salaries provision has been made in the estimates would be mere surplusage, having no meaning or force or effect at all. Does any one possessing common sense contend that those words were inserted in clause 33 of the School Act for mere ornament or to fill up so much space, and that it was intended that the Trustees should not, in the performance of their duty, give them the slightest consideration.

We hardly think that it was intended to place the provincial and the municipal treasuries at the disposal of the Board of Trustees, which would be the case if they were empowered to employ as many teachers as in their opinion are needed, and to give them such salaries as in their judgment their services might be worth. This would be carrying generosity to a point a good deal beyond reasonableness and giving trustees a degree of latitude which no legislature would be disposed to extend to them.

Our readers see that the interpretation which the minority of the Board of Trustees give the Act, besides ignoring one of its most important provisions, would lead to what all must admit to be a very glaring absurdity.

With all deference to the legal acumen of the learned minority, we think that it is wiser and safer to interpret the clause as a whole than to take it for granted that the Legislature who considered section 33 and made it part of the law of the land was wholly composed of idiots.

CHINESE DIPLOMACY.

The Chinese are adepts in the arts of diplomacy. They understand how to assume an air of innocence better than any European, and there is no mortal man who can pretend ignorance so naturally and so cleverly as the Chinaman, no matter how low he may be in the scale of intelligence. The Chinaman knows just as much as he chooses to know and no more. He is a born dissembler. It is impossible even to guess what his thoughts and intentions are if he desires to conceal them. His face, when he chooses, is as devoid of expression as the face of a stopped clock. The western diplomatist, in spite of his training and his accomplishments, finds that he is no match for the Chinese representative of his nation in cases where craft and concealment are required. The Chinese diplomat can outwit him with the utmost ease. Consequently, in dealing with the Chinese, it is found best to throw art aside and to speak to them in the plainest terms, and to be prepared to follow direct and simple speech, with action quite as direct and simple.

This was the course pursued by Lord Salisbury with regard to the recent outrages about which so much has been said and written. As soon as the British Prime Minister found that the reports of these outrages were true, he addressed a communication to the Chinese Minister in London, which was so worded that that functionary was afraid to communicate it to his superiors. Lord Salisbury's note was not at all violent, but the ambassador knew that the writer meant every word he said, and that if something were not immediately done to prevent further outrages the most serious consequences would follow.

It was some days before the ambassador in London plucked up courage enough to telegraph Lord Salisbury's note to Li Hung Chang, who is described as the convenient medium for the conveyance of all bad news to the throne. That personage had, by some means or other, obtained an inkling as to what was going on in London before the telegram reached him. He saw that it was no time to trifle or temporize, and so took action at once. He telegraphed immediately to the authorities in the districts where the riots had taken place to settle all the necessary claims without disputing about amounts. The host of difficulties which had before been conjured up disappeared as if by magic, and when the foreign ministers, a few days after, presented their collective note, they were met by a smiling mandarin, who in the best of humors asked them what all the trouble was about, as every claim arising out of the unpleasantness on the Yangtse had been settled by the local authorities to the satisfaction of the injured parties. The foreign ministers saw that they had been outmaneuvered in some unaccountable way. They to their infinite surprise, no doubt, found themselves without a grievance which the Chinese Government could remedy. All was quiet on the Yangtse and full reparation for the damage done to property had been made. It only remained for them to express their satisfaction at what had been so promptly done, and to retire with as good a grace as possible. They had come prepared to hear excuses for inaction, and to be shown that it was a matter of impossibility to restore order in the disturbed districts. Their stern reply to all pretenses for delay and inactivity was ready. It is easy to imagine their astonishment to find that their complaints were needless, and that their demand for compensation had been anticipated. They, perhaps, did not know at the time that this extraordinary and most unexpected change had been brought about by a few plain words from the British Prime Minister.

BABY'S FACE WAS RAW.

Distressing Itching Skin Disease Cured in One Month by the Cuticura Remedies.

When our boy was six weeks old he had a rash on his cheek. It spread on both cheeks and chin. His face was raw. I doctored with various remedies, but it got no better. My mother advised me to try the CUTICURA Remedies. I used them faithfully, and in one week the boy looked better. In one month he was cured, and now he is three years old and no signs of it returning. His child was so bad that to him in a pillow case and his father's down so that he could not scratch his face. I cannot speak too highly of the CUTICURA Remedies. I recommend CUTICURA whenever I can. I would be pleased to see anyone and talk to them of the good it has done my boy.

Another Big Strike in Kaslo-Slocan.

Charles Chambers and Ed. Becker came into Ainsworth about the 4th inst., bringing news of a discovery of a monster ledge of galena ore, about two miles east of the Hemmisy vein. It is said to be from 40 to 50 feet in width, and the lowest assay of the ore gave 14 oz. silver to the ton. Upon receipt of the news a fresh exodus took place from Ainsworth, and a large party left Bonner's Ferry on the steamer Spokane for Kaslo City and the new mines. The size and richness of the many veins in the new district exceed anything hitherto known in the history of lead mining. Thousands of persons on the southern side of the line are preparing to visit the new region early in the spring.

Interesting Fossils.

Mr. Theo. Robinson, manager of Turner, Beeton & Co.'s cannery, Skeena, received by the Foscowitz a box of mineral specimens, among which were a number of fossils. These were found on some of the lands which have been recently discovered on the west coast of Graham Island, of the Qu on Charlotte group. One was evidently a piece of wood which had been penetrated by the teredo worm, and both wood and worms have been converted into stone. Another is a portion of a shell-fish, while a third is a shell as clearly outlined as in life. Pieces of young trees with the rings of age clearly outlined, and masses of ferns or sprigs of pine trees are also in the collection. The sender of the specimens states that petrifications exist in large quantity, among them being bunches of trees.

The Chinese Exodus.

Signs of the annual Chinese exodus are already apparent, and numerous tickets have been secured for the Empress of Japan on the 18th inst.

Thanksgiving in the Churches.

On Thanksgiving Day, special services were held in almost all the city churches, which were filled by large and interested congregations. The music in many of the houses of worship was especially fine, and in the Reformed Episcopal church a collection, amounting to about $50, was taken up in aid of the Jubilee Hospital.

The three local lodges of the Sons of St. George met on Monday evening, to consider the Penrose case, in which a member of the order was murdered in Butte, Montana; because, as is said of his connection with the organization, while threats were on the same occasion made against members generally. It is also proposed that the membership shall take in persons hailing from all parts of Great Britain.

The Civil Service Exams.

To-day will see the conclusion of the Civil Service examinations, which have been going on steadily since Tuesday morning. The qualifying subjects (history, grammar, geography, composition, and transcription) were carried out on Thursday, and yesterday the optional subjects of translation, précis and book-keeping were put through. To-day, the candidates looking up stenography and typewriting will be examined in these subjects.

To Look For His Brother.

Ex-Mayor John Hendry, of New Westminster, passed through the city last night, arriving over by the Islander, and taking the Kingston for Tacoma, en route to California. His mission is to solve the mystery concerning his brother Thomas Hendry, who is said to have been spirited away under strongly suspicious circumstances. Nothing new is known of the case, and Mr. John Hendry has no facts in his possession other than those given in the dispatch from San Francisco published in the newspapers.

Going Home.

The crew of H.M.S. Pheasant are rejoicing over the fact that they will be steering for home on the 30th inst. They will leave Esquimalt on that date, and when their craft reaches Vancouver they will change the reefing deck for the land-sharks' rocker through the Rockies and Selkirk, and over the prairies on to Halifax, where they will again have a sniff of the sea breeze. The crew of the Champion leaves about the same date, and for a similar destination. Both ships are now out of commission. "This is the first time in marine history that a ship's crew is brought overland. How the 'jolly tars' will enjoy it remains to be seen.

Smart Work.

Last Wednesday night Sergeant Levin left here on the S.S. City of Kingston, for Seattle, with the object of attempting to secure a young man named Herbert Morgan, who had left this city for the Sound, and was accused of having defrauded the Co-operative Supply Company here of various small sums of money. The officer, on arrival in Seattle, had absolutely no clue to work on, but by persistent detective work and that bull-dog determination for which he is famous, he managed to locate and trap his man by next morning. The alleged defaulter was brought back by the Kingston on her return trip. Sergeant Levin is to be congratulated on having so quickly and successfully accomplished his mission, which looked, when he started out, to be almost futile and useless.

Checks from the Tartan.

Mr. Baillie Stuart's lecture "Checks from the Tartan," in the Sir William Wallace Hall, gave those who heard it great pleasure. Mr. Stewart is a pure Celt from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet. He speaks excellent English, and his Gaelic is of the purest. His lecture was interspersed with anecdotes illustrating different traits of the Highland character. Some were pathetic and others humorous, and all were admirably told. The audience showed their appreciation of them by hearty applause and by bursts of the heartiest laughter. Rev. Mr. McF. Macdonald, in moving a vote of thanks, gave expression to the opinion of everyone present when he said that if Mr. Stuart should pay Victoria a second visit it would require a larger hall than that of the Sir William Wallace Society's to hold the audience.

Poultry, Dogs and Pet Stock.

The meeting of the B. C. Poultry, Dog and Pet Stock Association was well attended by fanciers last evening in Messrs. Crane, McGregor and Boggs offices. A large amount of general business was done and after some discussion it was decided to hold the annual exhibition about the first of the new year. The Secretary was instructed to write to Dr. Robinson, of Morris-town, Ill., for the purpose of securing him as judge. This gentleman is to judge the Seattle show, and by having the B. C. exhibition about the same time it is hoped his services can be secured. Several prizes have been promised for poultry, and it is understood that dog fanciers are preparing to offer some fine trophies as prizes. The association have accepted the Canadian Kennel Club rules and regulations so that it will be quite an object to take prizes in the canine department.

The Situation.

"Half the interest a man feels in remaining alive would be lost," said a gentleman on Government street yesterday, "if we had no school board or city council, or Royal Commission to vary the monotony." With occasional refreshments like these and a little of London Hospital cough cure a man should live to a good old age.

Register Your Vote.

Those whose names are not already registered should take immediate steps towards filling in the necessary forms, which may be obtained at the City Clerk's office and at Messrs. Drake, Jackson & Helms'—where same can be duly attested, and registered at Mr. Mason's office, 6 Bastion square. No expenses attending registering and attesting, which must be completed by the 17th inst. n6-10t.

Acme Lodge I.O.O.F.

Last night, the grand officers of the I.O.O.F. and a very large number of visiting brethren were present at the installation of officers and opening of the new "Acme" Lodge. The following officers were elected: Bro. W. H. Collins, N.G.; Bro. W. G. Carson, V.G.; Bro. Thos. Collins, Rec. Sec.; Bro. Thos. Tubman, Per. Sec.; Bro. J. Jackson, treasurer. The following were the appointed officers: G. F. Giles, W. conductor; D. Campbell, outer guard; A. Cameron, inner guard; G. W. Edwards, R.S. to N.G.; R. McEachren, L.G. to N.G.; Chas. The President.

There were fairly large audiences at The Victoria, Thursday night and last evening, to witness the presentation of Marguerita B. Hewitt's comedy, "The President." The piece was new to Victorian theatre-goers, and turned out to be a splendid success, excellently played. From start to finish of the piece the interest was sustained in a remarkable manner, and from rise to fall of the curtain the audience was treated to genuine wholesome fun. The play is written in a manner calculated to bring out any latent talent for fun-making possessed by those performing it, and the ludicrous situations and mirth producing episodes abounding in it were rendered in a manner that left nothing to be desired. Every part in the piece is played by a finished comedian. There is no stick in it, and it is safe to say that no comedy ever presented here has given more general satisfaction, or met with such deserved success. Every incident in the play is such as might naturally arise in every day life, and nothing is strained or out of the common. To describe the play is almost impossible, so many are the ramifications of the plot, but it consists briefly in the depicting of an incident that happens in a New York hotel to a Mr. Christopher Crockett, who is on his way to London. The gentleman is treasurer of the Deep Down Mining company, of San Francisco, and, with his wife, is intending to visit London with the object of putting before the London shareholders of the company his claims to the office of President, just being vacated by a Mr. Jones. The said Jones is seeking a second term, and Mrs. Crockett has all kinds of schemes to put her husband in the position, when a telegram from San Francisco sends a New York detective on Crockett's track, on a false charge, instigated by Jones to damage his prospects. How Crockett disguises himself as his own butler, takes commercial travellers for detectives and tips them accordingly to get away, and the fifty other complications arising from the situation keep the audience in a state of laughter throughout. The President is a play that will undoubtedly score decided successes everywhere it goes.

NEWS OF THE PROVINCE.

The Strike at Wellington Ended.
After a long and bitter fight.

Sam. Greer Appears for Trial in the Court of Assize—Capt. White's Case.

The Fraser Claims Another Victim—Dr. Langis Receives a Bullet.

NANAIMO, Nov. 13.—The strike at Wellington is virtually at an end, being declared off. The vote taken in Nanaimo lodge is 161 for declaring it off, to 32 to continue; there are other lodges not yet heard from; but they are thought to be in favor of declaring it off. It has lasted nearly a year and a half, a long and bitter fight.

While W. Marks was out riding, his horse bolted, and upset the rig, throwing Marks out, breaking his collar bone and breaking the rig considerably.

The steamer Esquimaux left here, this morning, for Texada, with some prospectors on board.

Yesterday, while the men building the steeple of the new English church at Wellington, were at work, a man fell backwards from the scaffold, to the ground, seriously injuring himself.

A team, at Wellington, driven by Wm. Kilpatrick, ran away, throwing the driver out, and passing over him, injuring him seriously.

Ling Venditti, while working in No. 4 pit, at Wellington, had his shoulders badly injured by a fall of rock.

WESTMINSTER, Nov. 13.—John Hendry left for San Francisco to-day, to investigate the mysterious disappearance of his brother, Thos. Hendry.

Sam Greer's trial is set for to-morrow. The grand jury found no bill on the first charge of shooting with intent to murder, but a true bill for inflicting serious bodily harm and assaulting a constable. The grand jury has not reported on Capt. Frank White's case yet.

Thanksgiving day was generally observed; the weather was fine, but frosty.

The Fraser was responsible for the loss of another life to-day, W. H. Grant, a stone mason working on the new pier. Falling into the water there he met his death. He leaves a wife and two small children, who are at Yale.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 13.—The Fraser River Freezing Company, of Port Haney, put up 120,000 lbs. of salmon this summer. Large numbers of orders have been received from the East. As soon as the refrigerator cars arrive, the company will ship 50,000 lbs. to Detroit, New York and other Eastern points. One single order for 100,000 lbs. has been received, which the firm is unable to fill. The company will extend their operations next summer, so as to be able to fill such orders.

Dr. Langis met with a dangerous accident, yesterday. While examining a 22-calibre rifle, it was accidentally discharged, the ball striking him in the neck. He was taken to the hospital, and the bullet extracted. He passed a comfortable night, and will be out in a few days.

The Vancouver electric railway have completed the extension to their line, which now encircles the city through Mount Pleasant and Fairview. The regular service commences to-morrow.

Hunlan left, to-day, for San Francisco, via Victoria.

CHEMIST.

Mr. Chudwick, who has been in the Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, for the last few weeks, left for Southern California last week. He has been in very poor health for the past few years, and it is hoped that his southern trip will improve his constitution.

Mrs. Mangway arrived from Victoria yesterday. Her arm is mending very slowly, being broken near the shoulder.

The steamer Daisy arrived from Nanaimo last night with a small cargo of coal on board. She will take a slow load of lumber from here to Victoria to-day.

The sawmill started again last Tuesday. A schooner is ten days due here from San Francisco. She will take 600,000 feet of lumber from this port.

Whiskey continues to be supplied to the Indians in spite of the strenuous efforts of the authorities. Parties will have to be brought to justice this week for engaging in the illegal practice.

Very hard frosts have prevailed during the past week and the beginning of the present one. There was a slight fall of snow yesterday.

EAST KOOTENAY.

In North-East Kootenay, the miners are busy getting up their winter supplies in order to prosecute their work in the Vermilion Creek and McMurdo district, and great expectations are raised about the results of the coming winter's work, as the ground to be explored is extremely rich.

Mr. Brown, of Spokane Falls, has just returned to Windermere, in order to commence work upon the copper mines belonging to Messrs. Brewer & Co., which give most favorable indications of wealth.

In South-East Kootenay the prospectors are having great success in the discovery of rich leads of mines, and samples of ore have just been sent down for assay that have given as much as $800 in silver to the ton, in one case, and $637 in silver and $96 in gold, in another. Again, the Peacock copper ore, on Messrs. Erb & Hilbert's claim, gives as much as 59 per cent. of copper, besides some silver.

Messrs. Dewar and Douglas have discovered a good lead of strong ore up the St. Mary's river, near Cranbrook, and propose to spend the winter in exploring their claim. There is little doubt that the wealth of this part of the Kootenay district will prove quite as great as that of the neighborhood of Kootenay Lake; but the want of railway communication damps the ardor of prospectors, who naturally turn to portions of British Columbia or the United States where they can get facilities of transport.

A notice appeared in the Golden Era (which is published in Golden) a few weeks ago, to the effect that the coal in the Crow's Nest Pass had turned out to be a recent formation, and consequently was not of much value. This is absolutely untrue, and the editor much regrets having been led into the insertion of a statement so incorrect and which was so calculated to damage the country. The coal fields of the Crow's Nest Pass have been closely examined during last summer both by Dr. Selwyn, the head of the Geological Survey of Canada, and also by a highly qualified coal expert. Both these gentlemen, acting independently of each other, were astounded at the immense quantity, and also at the rich quality of the coal. The expert found four different kinds of coal—anthracite, semi-anthracite, a rich bituminous coal, with powerful coking properties, and also a peculiar kind of canal coal. There are 42 seams of coal, many of them over 30 feet in thickness. The whole of this immensely valuable property lies idle and unproductive for want of railway communication. The British Columbia Southern Railway Company was ready to commence the line next spring if the Dominion Government had granted the charter applied for last session to extend the line from the boundary of British Columbia in the Crow's Nest Pass to connect with the Calgary and Edmonton lines in Alberta, but the extension charter was refused until next session in favor of the Canadian Pacific railway.

The Calgary & Edmonton Railway Co. (which is to be operated by the C.P.R. Co.) have finished the grading of their line to near Fort McLeod; but they are not going into that town, but have swung round to the west towards the Crow's Nest Pass, and the supposition is that they intend to build through the Pass next year.

The sneller at Golden is now ready for work, and the fine buildings attached to it give a business-like appearance to that go-ahead little town, which bids fair to grow to considerable proportions as the rich mining country in the neighborhood gets developed.

At Donald much disappointment is felt that the appropriation of $2,000 for a hospital has not been granted for building purposes. A hospital is much required for the district, and a committee has been formed to draw up proposals which will be laid before the Government in order to obtain this much desired and most necessary institution.

WELLINGTON.

A telegram from Messrs. Parker & Phillips, contractors for the new Episcopal church at Wellington, to H. P. Jacobson, of 153 Yates street, received on Thursday, says:—

"Joe Galan fell and hurt himself badly. Let us know where his friends live if possible."

The injured man is a carpenter who was employed for some time on the new Five Sisters' block. He came to Victoria from Seattle, and has a wife living in Spokane, and a mother in Boston.

THE HISTORY OF GLYCERINE.

Its Discovery and Introduction into the Manufactures.

Many years ago, in an obscure mining village in Sweden, an apothecary was making lead plaster in the ordinary way by heating olive oil with litharge and water, when he chanced to notice that the liquid which was mingled with the paste had compound had a strangely sweet taste. On further investigation, he found that the sweet taste was caused by the presence of an oily liquid which was dissolved in the water. No such substance was described in the books of the day.

Scheele—that was the apothecary's name—knew that he had discovered a new substance. He soon found that this sweet liquid was not the product of olive oil alone, but that other oils and fats would yield it under the same treatment. So he named it the "sweet principle of fats" or "oil sugar."

More than a century has passed since Scheele's discovery, yet it is scarcely fifty years since "oil sugar" was found to be of practical value, except for a limited use in medicine. Chemists have given it the more formal name of glycerine, derived from a Greek word meaning sweet.

Every one is to-day familiar with the clear, thick liquid so commonly used for toilet purposes. Its soothing and softening effect on dry or inflamed skin is the quality for which it is best known in most households; but few people have any idea of the variety of purposes to which it is applied.

Among its most striking and valuable properties are its great solvent power, its chemical stability and its sweetness. Moreover, it is digestible, will not evaporate, and owing to this and its hygroscopic qualities, will prevent the drying and hardening of materials with which it is mixed.

These peculiar qualities make it most valuable in the preparation of medicines, unguents and various food products, as preserves and mustard; likewise in beer, wines and other bottled goods, where it is said to act as a preservative. The fact that strong solutions of glycerine and water will not freeze in the lowest winter temperatures has caused its use in our wet "gas meters."

Some of the more important industries in which it is used are vulcanizing india rubber, silvering and gilding glass, dressing leather for kid gloves, preserving anatomical and botanical specimens and the manufacture of what is, perhaps, the most powerful explosive known to science, without whose aid some of the grandest triumphs of modern engineering would have been impossible—nitro-glycerine.

A pure state glycerine is one-fourth heavier than water. After long exposure to a freezing temperature glycerine will deposit rhombic crystals resembling those of sugar candy. Its boiling point is 499 degrees Fahrenheit. Pure glycerine will burn readily if first heated to about 300 degrees. It gives a pale-blue flame similar to that of alcohol, and to the chemist glycerine is an alcohol.

A process has been invented by which animal fats are directly decomposed into stearic acid and glycerine by subjecting the fat to the action of superheated steam at a temperature of several hundred degrees. The resulting glycerine is concentrated and purified by steam distillation, while the stearic acid, which much resembles wax and in no way answers to our ordinary conception of an acid, is in great demand for candles.—Youth's Companion.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

BALLOONING IN CHINA.

Oriental Imitators of an American Aeronaut.

Amusing Incidents of Prof. Baldwin's Exhibitions Among the Mongolians—Pigtails in the Air.

T. S. Baldwin, the aeronaut who recently returned from various oriental countries, succeeded in thoroughly astonishing the Mongolian race by his exhibitions, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

The aeronaut's experiences were generally of the most pleasant kind, for the pigtailed patrons responded enthusiastically and the novel amusement set all China agog. The attendance at some of the exhibitions in the large seaport cities was enormous. The aeronaut found some difficulty in obtaining suitable places for absorbing the cash of the native populace, for fenced grounds are not to be had, and in most places the inclosure was made by rope and the assistance of the native police. The Mongolian deadhead has a more wholesome dread of the official guardian of the peace than his American confrere, and few persons ventured inside the roped circle without paying the admission fee. This was ten cents for the outer circle, twenty cents for the intermediate, and two dollars for the inner ring. The aeronaut found the swell Chinese perfectly willing to pay this stiff tax. The only trouble was that every pigtailed swell brought a retinue of servants with him, and when a big mandarin strutted in to see the show the army of retainers, from his teapot bearer to his grand high chamberlain, took up most of the dress circle.

Baldwin gave his first exhibition at Hong Kong, and the native shouts and yells that greeted his ascent were only excelled by the roar of amazement that met his brother when he came flying back to earth with a parachute. In all the towns the balloon proved the greatest attraction ever brought to the celestial land by the bearded white devils from foreign parts.

Having soon disabused their minds of any lurking belief that the white balloonists were possessed of supernatural powers, the Chinese set themselves to work to imitate him. Several adventurous Mongolians broke various portions of their anatomy from their necks to their legs by trying to descend from lofty temples and tall trees, with parachutes constructed out of native umbrellas. Toy balloons, constructed with great skill and attention to detail by natives, became part of the stock of the bazaars.

At Foo Chow a native genius constructed a mammoth hot-air balloon, with flaming dragon head and great paper wings, and made an ascension which will long be remembered by his townsmen. Baldwin gave all his exhibitions with hot-air-inflated balloons, that style of inflation being cheapest, quickest and otherwise most acceptable to a skilled aeronaut for such work as was there needed. The simple method of expanding the balloon pleased the native imitators, and the Foo Chow genius copied everything to a nicety, except the very important point of how to cut loose at the proper moment without accident. The result was that the balloon, which was of enormous size, shot up with such terrific and unexpected velocity that it carried with it a score or so of the Mongolians who were steadying it with the guy ropes while the aeronaut was getting ready to cut loose.

The great bag of air kept scattering Mongolians over the suburbs of Foo Chow until it turned a regular flip-flap, being improperly balanced, and fell into one of the large ponds in the outskirts of the city. This adventure had a very depressing effect on the native aspirants, but the mania had taken too firm a hold to be eradicated by an ordinary increase of the mortality rate, and when Mr. Baldwin left China for Japan pigtailed aeronauts were regularly soaring through space in various sections of the Celestial Empire.

The Japanese took almost as enthusiastically to the sport as the Chinese, and native imitators also appeared in a short time.

The Postal Service of Germany.

Germany's postal service has grown amazingly in the last eighteen years. Between 1871 and 1889 the number of letters to foreign countries increased from 49,000,000 to 140,000,000; of letters from foreign countries, from 38,500,000 to 122,000,000; of pieces of domestic mail, from 442,000,000 to 2,202,000,000; of packages and money orders, from 45,500,000 to 110,000,000. In 1889 107,823 letters were in the postal service, against 4,641 in 1871. Letter carriers go to the most remote mountain huts at least once daily, and in all cities there is a Sunday delivery.

Growing Artificial Teeth.

A dentist of Moscow is reported to have discovered a method of supplying the human mouth with false teeth which will grow into the gums as firmly as natural ones. Dr. Znamensky has performed several successful operations on dogs as well as human beings. The teeth are made of gutta percha, porcelain or metal. Holes are made at the roots of the false tooth and also up and into the jaw. The tooth is then placed into the cavity. In a short time a soft granulated growth finds its way from the patient's jaw into the holes in the tooth; this growth gradually hardens and holds the tooth in position.

A Bushel of Snakes.

Several boys of Americus, Ga., took it into their heads lately to wage a war against the numerous moccasin tribe in Magnolia Dell, and proceeded to carry out the idea. They fought for many hours, running the snakes out of their hiding places, and after killing them, heaping them in a pile. When they finished the pile would fill a bushel basket. In their joy the boys then stretched them out in a line, which covered a distance of one hundred and fifty yards. There were one hundred and twenty-three snakes in all, of various lengths and sizes.

THE GRAND OLD MAN.

Rt. Hon. W. E. GLADSTONE, one of the greatest of living statesmen, speaking of the Encyclopedia Britannica, said: "For scientific research and as an educational factor this great work has no equal." Thousands of the leading men of the world think the same thing. But few comparatively could afford to pay from $150 to $200 for the old original ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA. The ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA REVISED AND AMENDED contains every article that the old work does, but some of the lengthy articles have been cut down, and many articles written up to 1891, giving an Encyclopedia up to date. Besides, the ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA REVISED AND AMENDED contains over 4,000 biographies of living and dead statesmen not contained in the old work; even such men as the great Gladstone, Bismarck, Sir John Macdonald, Hon. John Bright, Hon. George Brown, and hundreds of other great men are not mentioned at all in the old ninth edition.

ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA,
REVISED AND AMENDED.

A SERIOUS GRIEVANCE.

The Butchers of This City Very Much Disturbed Over the Dominion Law.

The Enormous Difference It Will Make In the Price of Retail Meat.

On November 13th, 1890, an order in Council was made at Ottawa, ordering that the provisions in force regarding the importation of cattle into the province of Manitoba should be applied to the province of British Columbia as well. Up to the present time, however, this law, which provides for a quarantine of ninety days for cattle coming in from the United States, has never been enforced here.

A few days ago some Calgary stock breeders visited the city and brought the matter before the notice of the Collector of Customs, urging him, it is said, to carry out the law at once. The Collector, however, knowing what great difficulties stood in the way of the successful operation of the law here, sent word to Ottawa for instructions in the matter, not forgetting to put the case strongly before the authorities and to prove to them what hardships the enactment would cause to the people of this Island.

A COLONIST representative visited some of the people most interested last night, and the substance of their remarks is given below:

Mr. Earle:—Some of the butchers communicated with me to day, and I am assured that both Mr. Prior and I intend to do our level best to prevent the law being carried into force. As far as I can understand, the thing is being pushed forward by a combine, against the interests of the public, and I understand, upon the matter being brought to the notice of Collector Milne to-day, he communicated with Ottawa about it, pointing out the great hardship that the people of this Island would be put to by the present law enforced, and also very strongly arguing that it would be impossible to make any quarantine laws regarding Vancouver Island, as there were no ranges here where cattle could be kept for 90 days, or anything like 90 days. I have seen Dr. Blanchard, Government Quarantine officer, to day, and he tells me that there is absolutely no reason for the law being brought into effect here; that the American cattle that come here are perfectly healthy, and that it would simply mean a beef famine were any such iniquitous order put into force. I don't remember how the law was introduced, but it has been on the statute books for a year now.

Mr. Porter:—Last week two Calgary stockmen came to this city with the intention of stirring up this matter, and all the present business has arisen through their representations. For several months of the year, especially during February, March and April, British Columbia is not fit to bring into the market, nor do I believe, if a Government quarantine inspector were appointed he would allow these cattle to pass in at all; they are so thin and poor. American cattle are big and fat, and I have never heard of diseased cattle coming here from the United States. Our firm has for some time been getting its beef from Eastern Oregon, and if the law is carried into force, the meat will go up at once to 25c per lb. Doctor Blanchard examined three carcasses that he got, last night, and every carcass was as sound as a bell. British Columbia could not possibly supply the local wants. The demand for cattle is much greater than the supply. The local butchers get about 700 head of cattle per month, most of which comes from the other side. Every hoof in British Columbia is owned and controlled by three syndicates, and this fight is simply one of monopoly against small dealers.

Mr. L. Goodacre: "At the present time, as is my custom during the summer months of the year, I am getting all my cattle from British Columbia, but in the winter months it is absolutely impossible for me to do this, as no cattle can be brought down. Then I have to look to Washington, Oregon, or even Southern California for my beef, or otherwise I would be without any at all. In the winter and early spring the British Columbia and Calgary cattle are, when available, very poor and thin owing to insufficient pasturage, and whenever there is much snow there is no way of getting any down at all. I don't know why they wait to bring such a law into force in this province or on this island. We have no cases of diseased cattle here, and have had none so far. Besides, though it is all very well to make such a law apply to the East, the authorities should recollect that Vancouver Island is in a very peculiar position regarding the importation of cattle, and should not, in equity, be governed by the same laws. If now that this rule is to be strictly enforced here, we have a hard winter on the mainland, the result will be simply a beef famine. I believe that the whole business is the work of a few interested cattle breeders in Calgary and district, whom the Government intend to foster and build up at the expense of many thousands of consumers. At least this is how the matter looks to me: At present the local butchers import 600 head of cattle per month into the Island, averaging about $20,000 the lot weight. Now the price of prime beef to our customers is 15c per lb., but, should the law be enforced among us, the price, at the very lowest computation, will be raised to 20c, counting freight, wharfage and duty. So that the people of this Island will have to pay per month $21,000 more for their beef than they are doing to-day. I think I know what the residents of this city will say about that.

"FAIR PLAY, THOU ART A JEWEL!"

TO THE EDITOR:—In your report of the proceedings at the police court, a few days since, you say that George Madison (colored) was charged with being drunk, and that Willis Bond arose to address a few words in his defence, but was not allowed. Now my remarks were addressed to the Magistrate, but were interrupted by Mr. Sheppard, Supt. of Police, in these words, "you have no status in this court." To this I replied, "I have as many rights in this court as you have." This is not the first time that Mr. Sheppard has interrupted me in this manner, and, in every case to my surprise, was supported by the magistrate. I was not surprised at Mr. Sheppard, but do not understand how gentlemen qualified to occupy seats on the bench can interpret the law as laid down by the legislature other than that any person—whether he be professional or not—can appear in the police court for any other person. According to chapter 29, page 191, "an Act respecting practitioners in the county and other inferior courts," from and after the passing of this act, "any person shall be entitled to appear in any county court, or in the court of any stipendiary magistrate or justice of the peace, as the attorney or advocate of any party to any proceedings in such courts, or any of them, notwithstanding such persons shall not have been duly admitted as an attorney or barrister by the Supreme or any other court of British Columbia. Any rule, order, statute or other laws to the contrary, notwithstanding. The same rules and regulations which may from time to time be made by the Judges of the Supreme Court of B. C. respecting the character and conduct of any practitioner duly admitted to practice in the said courts shall apply to all persons practising under the provisions of this Act. Any judge of the county court, any stipendiary magistrate or justice of the peace shall have the right to refuse audience to any person practicing in his court, under authority of the Act, if such person shall, in the opinion of such judge, magistrate, or justice, be guilty of any gross misconduct, and shall generally have the same control over an unprofessional person so practicing in his court, as he would have over a professional person, duly qualified to so practice in the said court."

Now, my contention is that the Superintendent of Police has no right to interfere with the defence of the prisoner at the bar. If, in the opinion of the judge, however, that gross misconduct has been committed, it is sufficient and the prisoner at the bar is deprived of his defence. I would say in conclusion that my appearance in the courts as an advocate has generally been misunderstood. Some seem to think it to be an attempt on my part to interfere with the business of the duly qualified practitioners. Such is not the case, as it is well known that lawyers, like other people, want to be paid for their services, and will not, as a rule, give their time and talent to such a cause as this. These, without a single exception, are my clients, and a faint hope of perpetuating the fair record of my race in this province is my reward, without thanks, yea, even without acknowledgment from any source.

Troubles at Trentham.

Joseph Bayley is the proprietor of what is known as the Half-way House, between Victoria and Esquimalt, and has not been all right for sometime past. So peculiar were his ways, that his wife had to leave him. She is at present in the house of a neighbor, and Bayley has for months past shown symptoms of insanity, and has twice been in custody as one irresponsible. He was released on petition of friends, and when restored to freedom took to alcohol. A telephone message was, yesterday evening, received by the Provincial police, stating that Bayley had become so obstreperous that it was impossible to manage him. He had burst in the doors of the place, when he found that the sheriff was in possession. A bailiff, in charge, stowed away all the arms and ammunition in the house, but Bayley, coming home, insisted on having all the doors kept open. He has been mad or delirious for the past couple of weeks, and, yesterday, threatened to shoot any one who would dare to oppose him. The telephone message brought Sergt. Langley to the scene. He went as far as the Half-way house, and not finding the "wanted man" there, came home by the following car, having instructed the Esquimalt constable to arrest Bayley, should he strike him there. Bayley was subsequently arrested at Esquimalt.
